

https://www.stltoday.com/news/local/illinois/st-louis-man-gets-probation-for-voting-twice-in-2008/article\_739eb0c0-e204-11df-b6d3-0017a4a78c22.html

St. Louis man gets probation for voting twice in 2008

Robert Patrick
Oct 27, 2010

Subscribe for $1 a month

Tarrell Campbell, 34, of St. Louis, was sentenced to two years of probation Wednesday and ordered to pay $350 in fines and fees for voting twice in the 2008 election, prosecutors said.

He was also ordered to undergo drug testing and counseling.

Campbell voted early - on Oct. 24, 2008 - in Illinois, where he was a student at SIUE, and again in Missouri on Nov. 4. Campbell was a Missouri resident but moved to Edwardsville in June of 2007 and registered to vote there.

But he won't be able to vote any more.

Campbell pleaded guilty in federal court in St. Louis in July to a federal felony charge of voter fraud.

Under federal sentencing guidelines, Campbell faced probation or up to six months behind bars.

St. Louis man gets probation for voting twice in

0 comments

0 comments

Robert Patrick

Robert Patrick is a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Related to this story

Republicans, Democrats prepping crews to watch the polls

Oct 27, 2010

---

St. Louis man gets probation for voting twice in

CHAPETOWN

 0 comments

---