JORDAN

Jordan's economic freedom score is 59.4, making its economy the 91st freest in the 2025 Index of Economic Freedom. Its rating has increased by 1.1 points from last year, and Jordan is ranked 9th out of 14 countries in the Middle East / North Africa region. The country's economic freedom score is lower than the world average and higher than the regional average. Jordan's economy is considered "mostly unfree" according to the 2025 Index.

Structural weaknesses limit more vibrant economic growth. The rule of law is not strongly supported by the judicial system. Despite the challenging global economic situation, however, Jordan remains relatively open to international trade and investment. Business formation and operation are now more efficient and dynamic. Progress toward reforming bloated public-sector employment has been slow, and the labor market is very rigid. Most price controls have been eliminated, but the government sets prices for some services.
