

PERU

Peru's economic freedom score is 65.9, making its economy the 54th freest in the 2025 Index of Economic Freedom. Its rating has increased by 1.1 points from last year, and Peru is ranked 9th out of 32 countries in the Americas region. The country's economic freedom score is higher than the world and regional averages. Peru's economy is considered "moderately free" according to the 2025 Index.

Economic reforms have supported economic expansion and gradual reductions in poverty. Open-market policies that support trade and investment have been institutionalized, but corruption and the weak rule of law continue to undermine prospects for long-term economic development. Peru's evolving entrepreneurial sector benefits from increased access to financing and improved regulatory efficiency. Recent reforms have dismantled barriers to launching and running private enterprises, but political instability and social unrest have a negative impact on business freedom. Employment regulations are gradually becoming more flexible.
